

International Symposium on Neonatal and Pediatric Transfusion

Know our International Speaker

Dr Ruchika Goel

Senior Medical Director, Corporate Medical Affairs at Vitalant, Arizona;
Professor of Internal Medicine and Pediatrics at SIU School of Medicine;
Adjunct faculty in Pathology, Division of Transfusion Medicine,
Johns Hopkins University, USA

- Hematology/Oncology Fellowship at the Johns Hopkins University/National Cancer Institute Combined Program at NIH, and Transfusion Medicine Fellowship at New York Presbyterian Hospital, Weill Cornell, and New York Blood Center
- Serves a dual role as a practising hematologist/oncologist focused on benign and malignant hematology and as a transfusion medicine physician.
- Actively engaged in research on Big Data and Novel Computational Methods in Hematology and Transfusion Medicine, with a special interest in Hemostasis and Thrombosis.
- Invited consultant and subject matter expert for NIH/NHLBI-funded REDS-IV-P longitudinal studies; current chair of the Pediatric Subgroup of the International Society of Blood Transfusion (ISBT).
- Recipient of numerous accolades, including:
  - AABBB Fenwal Future Leader TM Scholarship Award
  - Paul J. Stranjford Young Investigator Award (American College of Laboratory Physicians & Scientists)
  - BEST Collaborative Scott Murphy Lectureship
  - 40 Under 40 Award for exemplary clinical service
  - International awards: ISBT Harold Gunson Fellowship, Australian and New Zealand Blood Transfusion Society Presidential Award
- Author of over 125 peer-reviewed publications and book chapters, with first-author contributions in leading journals such as JAMA, JAMA Surgery, Blood, Transfusion, Lancet Americas, and Vox Sanguinis. Regularly invited to lecture nationally and internationally on her research areas.

Join us for the symposium on 21st December 2024.

For more details visit <https://childpgitransfusion.in/>